Free security scans for open-source projects.

Opt-in scans use Anthropic models. Reports include an explanation and a suggested fix where available.

The reports arrive without human review.

Anthropic acknowledges possible inaccuracies. Maintainers still need to verify findings.

More findings can create more review work.

My takeaway: measure verified repairs and review effort, alongside vulnerability discovery.

Would AI security reports help your team?

Or add to the backlog? Start with a workflow for verifying each finding.
